MARK HANDLER

Mark Handler (aka: Ajay- yoga lineage; aka Karma Nyima Jinpa- Tibetan lineage) is the founder of Transformation through sound.

He specializes in offering meditative concerts around the U.S. with antique Tibetan Singing bowls and Tibetan style overtone chant. He also offers seminars, retreats, vocal sessions, breath training and individual sound healing sessions. These events have taken place at many different settings including physical rehabilitation and medical centers, public schools, museums, art centers, universities, yoga studios, music festivals, monasteries, spiritual centers, homes and a holistic health cruise and podcasts. He has over 650,000 views on YouTube and has produced 3 CDs and downloads (2 singing bowls, 1 mellow piano). He is a certified Amrit Yoga instructor. Northern Express described his sounds as "incredibly delicious to the ears" and his tones having the "power to go beyond one's ears, to the heart, perhaps even to the soul as a pathway to inner peace." Detroit News describes his music as "therapy for the soul."

Mark has studied with Yogi Amrit Desai, Ram Dass, Jonathan Goldman, Jean Houston, Joan Halifax, and many Tibetan monks including Tashi (Dalai Lama's former chant master) Lama Lobsong, Palden Rinpoche and Karma Kunga.
